

Institution	Faculty of Education - University of Barcelona
Degree (speciality)	Postgraduate program in Psychopedagogy
Programme field	The principal aims of this master's degree are to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -train education professionals with a solid understanding of educational psychology for applications to the educational and professional environments, capable of dealing effectively with issues of diversity, providing guidance on teaching and learning processes, and understanding the difficulties inherent in these processes; -provide students with an in-depth understanding of how to plan and manage educational psychology services, orientation, consultancy and evaluation; -train students to carry out effective critical analyses and interpretations of educational psychology policies, practises and treatment scenarios, which will provide the basis for competent professional practice and the improvement of teaching and learning processes; -introduce students to a range of tools and strategies for improving the planning and management of educational psychology services, guidance, consultancy and evaluation; -illustrate how to respond ethically and professionally to various theoretical and practical issues that may arise in future professional practice.
Explanatory text	Specific skills profile On completion of the master's degree, successful students will be able to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -assess the socio-educational needs of individuals, groups and organizations, through the use of different tools and techniques, taking into account the specific context in each case; -provide advice and guidance to education professionals and socio-educational agents on the organization, design and implementation of teaching-learning processes and experiences, with a focus on fostering diversity and equal opportunities; -apply principles of orientation to the design of strategies for stimulating the personal and professional development of individuals; -design, implement and evaluate educational practices, programs and services aimed at meeting the needs of specific individuals, organizations and groups; -plan, organize and implement services in the field of educational psychology; -apply basic management principals to coordinated activity planning and leadership of educational psychology teams, supporting collaborative work between different agents and institutions; -analyse, interpret and propose strategies, taking into account educational policies in a dynamic and constantly evolving social context; -formulate new strategies for improving educational psychology practices, based on the results of research in this field. Cross-disciplinary skills profile During this master's degree, students will acquire the skills and competences to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -solve problems in new or relatively unknown environments, and in broader or multi-disciplinary contexts; -take decisions based on problem analysis, through the critical application of the latest knowledge and advances in the field of educational psychology; -transmit clearly and unambiguously professional decisions and conclusions, and the knowledge and reasons that justify them, to specialized and non-specialized audiences; -show an awareness of beliefs and stereotypes in their own, and other, cultures and of the effects these can have on professional practice; -promote respect for differences between individuals and societies; -work professionally and appropriately in all cases, demonstrating a respect for the code of ethics of the profession; -maintain an up-to-date knowledge of ICTs and apply them in professional practice; -actively pursue continuous professional development, recognizing aspects of professional practice that must be improved and acquiring a greater degree of independence and confidence.

Language (Working languages used in the program)	Spanish and Catalan
Can you propose teaching module in English?	No
Do you proposed intensive classes for foreign countries incoming students?	Intensive Language courses (Catalan and Spanish)
Contact or local coordinator	Prof. Marta Burguet (mburguetarfelis@ub.edu) Prof. Pilar Figuera (pfiguera@ub.edu)
Website or master program	http://www.ub.edu/pedagogia/master/psicopedagogia/esp/index.htm
Additional information	Pathway(s) offered: professional practice Number of ECTS credits awarded: 60 Admission requirements - Official degree The following students will be entitled to direct access to the master's degree: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -holders of undergraduate degrees in education and psychology; -holders of university diplomas or bachelor's degrees in teacher training, with special qualifications or certifiable training in issues related to diversity. The following students will be required to complete train-up course units: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -holders of university diplomas or bachelor's degrees in teacher training; -holders of university diplomas or bachelor's degrees in social education and social work; -holders of university qualifications in other disciplines with accredited professional experience in the field of educational psychology. Holders of officially recognised equivalent qualifications awarded by foreign universities may also apply.